SUBJECT: Senate Judiciary Committee Submission

As you may know, our company was asked by the Senate Judiciary Committee to state its views on a variety of tobacco issues.

Today, we have provided the Committee, the state attorneys general, certain members of Congress and other interested parties the accompanying document which sets forth the company's positions on a number of these issues. I hope you will take the time to read it.

I realize some of you may not agree with all or parts of the positions the company has taken on these issues. Please understand that it is perfectly acceptable to hold personal points of view and express them as such. Ours is a company that values and encourages freedom of thought and expression in all that we do. But keep in mind the distinction between your personal beliefs and the company's position on these and other issues and represent them accordingly.

We will continue to provide you with updates on developments as we move forward. I hope they have been helpful in keeping you informed.
